This Week in Wabash

Hello, Wabash,

I usually say Happy Wednesday at the start of these newsletters. (Because it is usually actually Wednesday.) But, this time I'll say Happy Monday. (Because it is Monday, this time.) That's because I've been informed that going forward, these newsletters will be delivered to your inboxes on Mondays instead of Wednesdays. So, in the future, look out for these newsletters at the start of your week rather than in the middle.

As I discussed last week, on Thursday, Dec. 2, Indiana Secretary of State Holli Sullivan visited Wabash to drop by the office of Wabash County Clerk Lori Draper.

Afterward, she and her staff visited the Plain Dealer's office for a sit-down interview before leaving town. We had a really interesting interview that covered several topics from election security, increasing voter confidence and her election campaign. The story will be in Wednesday's paper and I hope you'll take the time to check it out.

As I also discussed last week, on Thursday, Dec. 9, I will be traveling to the Statehouse in Indianapolis to conduct a 15-minute one-on-one in-person end-of-the-year interview with Gov. Eric Holcomb. I am extra excited for this opportunity because since the pandemic hit Indiana in March 2020 I have participated virtually in dozens and dozens of televised press conferences with Gov. Holcomb and other state officials, but this will be the first time I will have the opportunity to do so in person.

I will be taking photos and writing a story afterward, so you'll get to find out what we talked about afterward. But, beforehand I wanted to let you in on the process. If you have a question you'd like me to ask Gov. Holcomb, please email me back and let me know by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8. I can't promise I'll ask every one, but I would appreciate your input. It can be about anything about their offices, of course, but if there's a local issue or concern you'd like me to ask them about that would help me greatly.

I look forward to hearing back from you, our readers, about what is on your minds. I firmly believe that the job of our elected officials is to be accountable to their constituents.

I hope you have a great rest of your week.

Best,
Rob
